Pattern

I found this design by googling “baroque” designs in fabric. I copied the design onto my desktop, enlarged it and printed it. You must use a pattern right from the printer, not a copy. The copy will not have enough ink.

Step 1- Cover the top of the heart with Polar Bear. Immediately press your pattern face down onto the white paint. Let dry. The more dry the paint, the better the impression left by the ink. There might be “crinkles” in the paint left by the paper shrinking. When the paint is dry, lightly sand these off.

Step 2- Fill in design using fun writers and brushes. Work on one area of the heart for a while and then move to another area. This allows the previous area worked on to dry so that new colors can be added without mixing with the old ones. Work in this manner until the entire front of plaque is covered. Let dry.

Step 3- Using the fan brush, paint back of plaque with 3 coats of Polar Bear. Let dry.

Dip in Gare 9000D and fire to cone 06.
